

FAMILY READINESS: ESSENTIAL TO MISSION READINESS

UNIT DEPLOYMENT GUIDE FOR FAMILIES

UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS

FOREWORD

Family Readiness is defined as families who are prepared and equipped with the skills and tools to successfully meet the challenges of the military lifestyle. A successful deployment for the Marine and family requires readiness through planning and advanced preparation. Similar to the unit making preparations for their deployment, many steps must be taken by the Marine to ensure his/her family can continue efficiently during his/her absence. Gathering information is but the first step. A successful deployment requires good communication and an understanding of the roles each family member will play during this time.

Many organizations are a part of the support structure available to the Marine and family preparing for a deployment. The installation Marine Corps Community Services (MCCS) can provide information, guidance and support during the preparation stage and for the family during the deployment. The MCCS web site, (<http://www.usmc-mccs.org>) also displays information on applicable support programs and links to other military support sites. At the end of this guide, there is a listing of helpful web sites to keep families “linked” electronically. The unit Key Volunteer Network (KVN), Navy Marine Corps Relief Society (NMCRS) and the American Red Cross are other great resources for Marine families, as are the Chaplain and his/her staff.

The reunion process can be equally as difficult as the separation and deployment. In returning to a family, it is important to recognize that there may be a variety of negative emotions along with the positive ones. It can be particularly difficult for a spouse to give up total control of the family and finances. Once adjusted to separation, she/he has been operating on her/his own. Children are, of course, happy to have their parent back, but may experience some negative emotions and confusion during the adjustment process. There is usually an anticlimactic “let-down” after the big anticipation of homecoming. In most cases, it is enough to simply be aware that the reunion process can be stressful and to show extra tolerance and understanding during the readjustment period.

This guide is intended to enable Marines and their families to better prepare for an upcoming deployment and to serve as a resource during the deployment. A number of excellent resources were used in creating this guide including the MCB Camp Pendleton, II MEF and MCAS Yuma Deployment Guides, the Office of the Secretary of Defense Guard and Reserve Family Readiness Programs Toolkit, the Army Family Support Group Leaders Handbook, the Key Volunteer Network training materials, and information from the Lifelines, Fleet and Family Support Centers of Hampton Roads and Deployment Link web sites.

PRE-DEPLOYMENT

SECTION 1: FINANCIAL PLANNING

The Marine and spouse should review family financial procedures and ensure all financial matters are resolved prior to departure. There should be a good understanding of the roles and responsibilities of each spouse concerning allocation of pay, payment of bills and a household budget. The Financial Specialist with your installation Marine Corps Community Services Personal Services Financial Management Program, the Navy Marine Corps Relief Society, and many credit unions and banks can provide assistance with budget planning. Each unit has a command Financial Specialist. The Marine should ensure the family has enough money each pay period for basic living expenses such as rent, food and utilities. Appendix A is a Family Budget Form to assist with planning a family budget.

A. PAY DISTRIBUTION

1. Direct Deposit Distribution. Direct Deposit to a joint account can lead to confusion and problems if both spouses are writing checks and making withdrawals on the same account. Bounced checks and letters of indebtedness can result. Most banks will set up separate accounts and distribute the direct deposit funds between the accounts as requested. Transfer of funds between accounts can easily be made if one person falls short of cash. Contact your bank or credit union for more information.

2. Allotments/Split Pay

"D" Allotment. The Marine can initiate an allotment to family members to cover basic living expenses. All or part of a Marine's basic pay or BAH can be allotted.

"S" Allotment. Savings allotment to a joint account can allow the spouse to draw out the needed amount of money.

Only the Marine, not the spouse, can start, stop, or change an allotment. Should an allotment need to be changed, the Marine can change it through the unit G-1 (S-1 or Admin Office) or via the E/MSS (Employee/Member Self Service, website: <http://emss.dfas.mil>, phone: 1-877-363-3677 in CONUS). The LES (Leave and Earnings Statement) can also be viewed on the E/MSS website with a user p.i.n. (personal identification number) We recommend getting this p.i.n. as soon as possible to avoid any future dilemmas. It can take up to 45 days (three pay periods) for implementation of an allotment. Once the Marine is deployed there can be a 60-day lag.

A Marine may allot part or all of his pay, with the exception of COMRATS (commuted rations) and Clothing Allowance. When individuals start an allotment, it is wise to have money set aside, particularly if allotting a large amount of total pay. The money for an allotment is taken out of both checks, the first and 15th of the month. The first allotment check is issued on the first of the following month. If there is a pressing need for the funds when an allotment is started or delayed, Navy Marine Corps Relief Society (NMCRS) can often assist with an interest-free loan until the money arrives. A Marine or Sailor can sign a pre-authorization form at NMCRS to enable his/her family members to receive assistance. If the family member is not pre-authorized, permission from the service member to assist is required. Obtaining this permission via Red Cross message can be a long process. A general Power of Attorney can also be used as authorization for assistance from NMCRS.

3. Split Pay. This option allows Marines enrolled in the Direct Deposit Program to receive a portion of their pay at their duty locality each payday. This requested split pay amount must be a whole dollar amount less than or equal to the Marine's normal pay. The remainder of pay will be transmitted to the Marine's financial institution.

B. ADDITIONS TO AND SUBTRACTIONS FROM PAY

1. All deployed Marines with family members are eligible for Family Separation Allowance ($100.00 per month). This allowance will be reported on day 31 of the deployment. It can take several paychecks before the money is received, but it will be dated back to include payment from the first day of deployment to the end of deployment. There are reasons that can cause termination of the allowance such as extended social or permanent visits of family members.
2. Basic Allowance for Subsistence (BAS) (sometimes referred to as COMRATS or Pro/Sep Rations) is a continuous entitlement for all Marines. Enlisted Marines will have a deduction for meals taken from their pay account when they are issued a meal card or being provided with meals, such as MREs when in the field. The amount deducted is slightly less than the full BAS for each day. As with Family Separation Allowance, it can take several pay periods for the initial deduction to occur, but the full amount will be deducted at some point.
3. All personnel will receive Temporary Additional Duty pay while deployed for over 30 days or more than 50 miles away. The amount varies with rank and deployment site.
4. Basic Allowance for Housing (BAH) payment or stay in base housing will continue at the same rate through the deployment.

SECTION 2: COMMUNICATIONS

A. EMERGENCY

1. Family members can contact their Marines to inform them of family emergencies (i.e., death, illness, or injury) through:
 - a. The Command via the Key Volunteer Network
 - b. Local Red Cross Chapter or Station during normal working hours or at the Chapter emergency number
 - c. American Red Cross Armed Forces Emergency Services toll free in the U.S. at 1-877-272-7337
 - d. Duty Officer of the installation or Officer of the Day
2. A Casualty Assistance Calls Officer (CACO) notifies the next of kin in the event of serious injury, illness or death of a Marine. A uniformed Marine representative will make notification in person. In most cases a Chaplain will accompany the CACO. This may not be possible in some cases such as in a Marine Corps Reserve unit or when next of kin do not reside near an installation. In Appendix B of this guide, there is a checklist for the spouse to complete that will indicate her/his preferences in the event of an emergency. This form is designed to be completely confidential and will only be used if needed. The form is also available from the unit Family Readiness Officer.

B. ROUTINE

The Key Volunteer Network provides official communication within the unit to the spouses of married Marines. Any official message will be passed via the Key Volunteer phone tree, verbatim from the Commander, or his designee, to each family. Official messages may include schedules for return dates and port calls, changes in those schedules, mishap reports, etc. All Marine Expeditionary Units (MEUs) have official web sites accessible through <http://www.usmc.mil>; some will have telephone numbers with automated update messages. Unit family readiness personnel will provide details and information about these services at the unit pre-deployment briefs.

SECTION 3: FAMILY CARE PLAN

A Family Care Plan is the responsibility of Marines who are single parents; dual military couples; Marines who otherwise bear sole responsibility for the care of minor children or Marines with family members who are unable to care for themselves in the Marine's absence. A Family Care Plan provides guidance and procedures to the person(s) who provide care for the Marine's children, disabled, elderly, and/or other family member(s) in the absence of the Marine due to military duty (training exercises, temporary duty, deployments, etc.). The plan outlines the legal, health care (medical and dental), logistical, educational, monetary, and religious arrangements for the care of the Marine's family member(s) or ward to include Wills, Power(s) of Attorney, Certificates of Guardianship or Escort, family contacts, Special Letters of Instruction and any other documentation reasonably necessary for the caregiver's use. The plan must be sufficiently detailed and systematic to provide for a smooth, rapid transfer of responsibilities to the caregiver upon the absence of the Marine. Marine Corps Order 1740.13B provides guidance for Family Care Plans. The Plan must be reviewed for accuracy and validity each year and is a part of the Marine's service record. Family Care Plans for those Marines who are required to have them are also included as a part of the unit family readiness program.

SECTION 4: LEGAL PLANNING

GENERAL

Services available at the Legal Assistance Office are free. They include, but are not limited to, general estate planning, wills, insurance review and general property matters. Advice is available on such matters as credit purchasing, state and federal taxation, state motor vehicle laws, landlord-tenant relationships, laws involving domestic issues (divorce, adoption, etc.), state residency matters, immigration laws and commercial contract laws. Check with your installation Legal Assistance Office for information specific to your area.

The Marine lawyers cannot represent clients in civilian court, but they can advise and assist active duty and retired service members that have personal legal problems. The Legal Assistance Officer is required to treat all such problems confidentially and may not lawfully be ordered to disclose such information by any superior authority. When a legal problem is not within the scope of the Legal Assistance Program, referral can be made to local civilian counsel.

Act immediately when a legal issue is discovered. Immediate action will often resolve small problems before they become more serious. For example, the best time to ask questions is before signing a contract rather than when the terms of the contract come into dispute. Never sign a blank contract!! Utilization of Legal Assistance services is both advised and encouraged when a legal problem is first identified.

1. Powers of Attorney. One of the most important matters to consider during pre-deployment planning is a Power of Attorney. A Legal Assistance officer should be contacted to help you prepare one. They come in two forms:

A. General Power of Attorney allows the holder of that legal document the right to sell personal property, and to use the grantor's credit. A General Power of Attorney grants virtually unlimited ability to act for another person. General Powers of Attorney often create more difficulties than they cure and are generally not advised. It is an extremely powerful legal instrument and can be a dangerous instrument in the hands of someone inexperienced in business matters, a person of unstable temperament, or a spouse when the marriage relationship is in state of discord. A General Power of Attorney should not be executed unless the individual making it is fully aware of the risks associated with such a document. Always consider whether a Special Power of Attorney would serve the immediate purpose.

B. Special Power of Attorney allows the holder of that legal document to act for the grantor only when conducting business that is delineated in the document. This power of attorney will list in writing the actions you want conducted on your behalf. A Special Power of Attorney can be very useful for such matters as moving of household goods, settling of insurance claims, and managing financial accounts or funds not jointly held. Care should be taken in determining who will hold the power of attorney and what actions will be authorized in the document. Remember without the Power of Attorney, the spouse at home could be significantly hampered in dealing with matters that may arise during deployment.

2. Wills. This document is very important for every Marine, particularly those with family members. The primary purpose of a will is to ensure that minor children are cared for and property distributed as the writer desires. Without a will, state laws decide how personal property is distributed and, if there are children involved, they can become wards of the state. The state's wishes generally do not follow those of the deceased. It is important that an individual's will reflect his/her current state of affairs so keeping it up to date is critical. Overlooking the execution of this important document could directly affect the security of your family. Your banking institution or a responsible adult should be named executor of your will. A will does not cover life insurance distribution. Insurance is a separate contract between the insured and the insurance company. Verify that your beneficiary designations on insurance policies are accurate and current.
3. In Loco Parentis. This phrase means standing in place of parents. If children are in the care of someone other than a parent or legal guardian, that person is considered in "loco parentis." Some states will appoint children as wards of the state when the parents are injured and/or unconscious unless there is an original notarized document authorizing a specific person to act as guardian. It is possible that children in the care of someone other than the legal guardians or parents will not be seen for medical emergencies without this original notarized form. A separate form must be filled out and notarized for every person caring for the child or children and there should be a form in your vehicle that can be easily accessed. For more information, DEERS dependency information is available from the MCCS web site at <http://www.usmc-mccs.org/>.
4. Notarization. Notary public service is available at the Legal Assistance Office, most banks and credit unions, and usually through Marine Corps Community Services. There may be a small fee for the service depending upon where it is obtained.
5. Taxes. Federal and State Tax returns (when required) must be filed even though the service member is deployed, unless an extension is granted. Problems in preparing and submitting tax forms or improper tax assessment may be directed to the Legal Assistance Office. Marine Corps installations will normally have a VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance) office to assist with preparing a return. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) refund check will generally require the signatures of both parties in a jointly filed form.

Electronic filing will require payment via direct deposit to joint account. A special power of attorney is recommended to facilitate filing and access to refunds. The required filing time period for Federal Income Tax is between January 1 and April 15 of the year following the taxable year. If you are outside the continental United States (CONUS) on April 15th you have until June 15th to file provided you are on official orders, not on leave. You can extend the June 15th filing date up to two more months after your return to CONUS if you file an IRS Form 4868 prior to June 15th. Detailed information may be obtained from the IRS toll free from the hours of 08:15 to 16:15 at 1-800-829-1040.

- 6. Contact. The Joint Legal Assistance office can be contacted on Friday mornings at 0730 to set up an appointment at (760-725-6172). Only a limited number of appointments are allowed each week. Walk-ins are welcomed Monday and Thursday at 0800, and Wednesday at 1330.

RECORD OF PERSONAL AFFAIRS

A checklist is provided in Appendix B to facilitate the gathering of all personal information that will be helpful during the deployment. Keep this information in one location with your important papers (Wills, powers of attorney, insurance policies, etc.).

SECTION 5:

EMOTIONAL PLANNING

1. COMMUNICATION IS THE KEY

Often, family members don't talk about deployment because the possibility of separation makes them feel uncomfortable. Honest discussion is usually the best way to deal with anxiety and minimize potential problems. Agree how often you will write and what type of information will be shared. Discuss alternate ways to communicate such as email, video and cassette tapes, letters and phone calls. It is a good idea to plan in advance for length and frequency of phone calls. Establishing a few ground rules and making a list of the "need to know" items before a call will help to keep phone bills under control. Plan ways to keep the connection with relatives and decide who will write/send gifts to parents and other family members for special occasions.

2. EXPECT TO GO THROUGH A SERIES OF FEELINGS

Couples preparing for deployment and separation go through many emotions. At first, they may feel excited. Later, they may start to withdraw from each other in an attempt to deal with powerful feelings. After separation and reunion, they may be disappointed that things did not go as they had hoped. Intense feelings are normal. Recognize your feelings and expectations and talk to your partner about them. Have special photos taken of you and your family together and of your spouse or loved one alone. Give your special someone a keepsake for the deployment that will act as an emotional tie to keep you connected when you feel lonely. Be romantic before the deployment and create special moments to cherish. Recognize that many couples argue right before a deployment. Talking about your feelings ahead of time can help to minimize this. Information in this section regarding the emotional cycle of deployment should help you sort through some of your emotions. Don't worry if you are angry or depressed the first few days after separation. Do what you have to do, but go easy on yourself. Soon, you'll begin to see that you can handle separation.

3. PLAN AHEAD

Try to anticipate what will happen after deployment and separation. Plan how to handle practical problems. For example, decide what to do if the furnace or car breaks down. Discuss how you want to share bad news. Try to write about solutions and plans, not focusing on the problems. For the spouse at home, once you find a comfortable routine, stay with it. Many people find that routine and ritual can be comforting. Identify your support systems: Key Volunteer Network, family, friends, Navy Marine Corps Relief Society, place of worship. Discuss and plan how you will spend the day of departure as well as starting homecoming plans that can be discussed and refined throughout the separation. Indicate special events, birthdays, and school activities on a calendar and duplicate so that each spouse has a copy. Utilize these calendars as a homecoming countdown. For special occasions, cards can be purchased and flowers and gifts can be ordered in advance for family members at home. Discuss special items the deploying spouse wants and needs and develop a list of suggestions for care packages. Be prepared for a shock - no matter how well you prepare for separation, no matter how much you talk it through, when the day finally arrives, you will still feel surprised that it really happened.

4. MYTHS OF DEPLOYMENT

- a) Myth #1: Many people assume that one “gets used to” separation, and therefore, each deployment and separation is less difficult and hurtful. Research proves this false, as does personal experience. The first deployment requires the greatest adaptation because everything is new. The next several deployments are somewhat easier because of lessons learned. However, if the deployment cycle is frequent and continuous, families find that the effect is cumulative and the strain is great. Knowing that there are others with the same feelings and experiences during this time may make you feel less alone. Reach out to others and make sure you have good social support.
- b) Myth #2: After the service member returns home, you can pick up right where you left off before the deployment. This just isn't so, particularly after the first separation. Each partner has been changed by the experience and the physical, mental, financial and emotional challenges they have faced. A wife and husband are different after separation and must learn to be flexible as they adapt to each other's and the children's growth.
- c) Myth #3: All of the illnesses suffered during deployment are a figment of your imagination or due to your spouse's absence. Many spouses feel there is a tendency by doctors to attribute very real pain or illness to the absence of the deployed partner. Their suffering may be inaccurately diagnosed as childish attention-getting behavior. Stress can bring on medical problems and it is important to have those addressed.

EMOTIONAL CYCLE OF DEPLOYMENT

The Emotional Cycle of Deployment (ECOD) describes changes in spouses' behavior and emotions during deployments of three months or more. Although it was initially developed for Navy wives, the model has been useful in working with husbands and children as well. The ECOD presents a general picture and appears to be true for spouses most of the time, but each person is unique and the exceptions are varied.

Long before the Marine walks out the door, the process of getting ready for deployment starts. For a period of time, the spouse tends to ignore the upcoming deployment, fantasizing that something will happen to prevent it. At some point, an event will trigger recognition of the reality of departure and then the Emotional Cycle begins.

STAGES ONE THROUGH SEVEN

- A. Stage one – Anticipation of Departure (1–6 weeks before departure).
Before the deployment it is not uncommon for spouses to protest, to feel tense, to be frustrated and to avoid the reality of the Marine's departure. Spouses may unexpectedly find themselves crying at what may seem to be little things. There is also tension as couples cram a multitude of activities in a reduced time frame. There are things to fix, things to do, and people to see. It can be a hectic and frustrating time.
- B. Stage Two - Detachment and Withdrawal (Last week before departure).
Detachment may begin before the actual departure. There may be anger and emotional break-offs as people prepare for separation. It can be a time of mixed feelings as one attempts to protect oneself from hurt by distancing, yet wants to make the most of the available time. At the beginning of this stage the spouse may experience the grief of loss. Detachment will also be a part of the whole separation time. It is the state of routine, day to day, living.
- C. Stage Three - Emotional Disorganization (1-6 weeks into deployment).
Emotional disorganization can occur initially when the spouse attempts to make new routines and carry out their duties. Many spouses are depressed and withdraw from friends and neighbors, especially if the neighbors' spouses are home. They often feel overwhelmed as they face total responsibility for family affairs. The disorganization soon passes, however, as the spouse recovers.

Important notes to remember during both stage two and three is take care of your and your children's health. Shop and cook for healthy nutrition. Get plenty of rest and exercise. In addition, avoid trying to do everything all by yourself. Contact family, friends, neighbors, and spouses of other deployed Marines whenever you need practical or emotional support. There are many other spouses in your unit family that are dealing with the same emotions and increased responsibilities that you are feeling. Often it helps just to talk to someone in the "same boat."

D. Stage Four – Recovery and Stabilization (variable, between weeks 3 & 5).
Recovery and stabilization occurs as the spouse gets set into a routine and realizes they are doing fine. It is a time of increased confidence. A subconscious move from “we” to “me” has taken place at least to some degree. The spouse often refers to “my house,” “my car,” and “my kids.” Most spouses have a new sense of independence and freedom and take pride in their ability to cope.

E. Stage Five – Anticipation of Return (6 weeks before return).
This is the “Oh boy! They’re almost home,” stage. With it comes excitement and anxiety. Some spouses become frenzied, as they rush around trying to make everything perfect for their Marine’s return. Many spouses start diets and pick up the pace of doing what ever it is they feel must be done before the Marine returns.

Important notes to remember for stage five is don’t expect things to be perfect after the reunion. Consider setting aside quiet time during the first few days. Avoid planning a busy schedule of events. Even though reunion is exciting, it can be stressful, too. Changes may have occurred and you both will need time to adjust. He gained weight, she changed her hair, and the kids probably have grown. Another area to think about is the budget. There will be increased food costs and greater transportation costs.

F. Stage Six – Return Adjustment and Renegotiation (6 weeks after return).
Upon return to home the phase of adjustment and renegotiation of the relationship begins. The set of assumptions and expectations need to be reset, and reevaluated (fine tuned), to account for the changes that have occurred in the past 6 months or year. It may be a time of tension and fighting. This is, however, normal and to be expected. Communication is the key. Especially during stage six. Remember, open, honest communication can solve many problems or conflicts.

G. Stage Seven – Reintegration and Stabilization (6-12 weeks after return).
The last stage is when reintegration of the family is complete and things have stabilized. The move from “me” (my house, my car, my kids) to “us” (our house, our car, our kids) is complete. The returning spouse is a part of the family again, and “normal” life resumes.

SECTION 6:

CHILDREN AND DEPLOYMENT

CHILDREN NEED HELP DEALING WITH DEPLOYMENT

A deployment can be emotionally challenging for those left behind, especially children. Although children's reactions will vary with their personalities, ages and coping skills, changes of the magnitude of a deployment will almost always be puzzling to children. Parents wonder how the separation will affect their children specifically and what roles they will play as parents to assist their children through this time. (Will we lose touch with one another? Will the children remember the deployed parent? How will I, the stay home parent, handle the added responsibility? How can I still be a good parent while I'm gone?) On the positive side, independence and self-confidence grow for all; the parent/child relationship at home is strengthened; and, the deployed parent can share their adventure with the family via cards, letters and other avenues of communication.

Before Deployment:

- a. Make sure children know they are loved unconditionally. Often young children see themselves as the cause of separation. They may feel their parent is going away because they have been bad, or because their parent doesn't love them anymore. Make sure children know this isn't the case. Spend time with each child individually before leaving.
- b. Be truthful – children can sense when they are being lied to. Often, what they imagine is much worse than reality, and they may worry unnecessarily. It helps to talk openly and honestly about the deployment and separation. Knowing about the deployment in advance helps in adjusting to the idea.
- c. Let children know it's OK to talk about feelings, even negative ones, by sharing your own. Very young children may become confused and fearful that the non-deploying parent will desert them as well. Encourage conversation by making open-ended statements ("You must be feeling really scared and sad right now..."). This will help them open up to you.
- d. Tell children when you are leaving and how long you will be gone. Show them a date when you will be returning on the calendar they will be using while you are gone. Encourage them to ask questions.
- e. If possible, give the children a tour of the ship (or other vehicle you will deploy with) and show them where you will eat, sleep and work. Leave a comfort item with each child such as a t-shirt, ball cap or pillowcase.
- f. Ensure that each child is left with a picture of the deploying parent and him/herself.
- g. Visit your child's school before deployment and talk to the teacher(s). Stay involved by leaving stamped, addressed envelopes and a request for periodic communication regarding your child's progress as well as PTA/PEA and school newsletters.

During Deployment:

- a. Maintain routines; regular mealtimes and bedtimes can help children feel more secure. Try to keep the same family rules and routines that were used before separation. Don't forget to schedule some of the same activities the family enjoyed when Dad/Mom was home. Children may be uncomfortable feeling that everything is "on hold" until the deployed parent returns.
- b. The parent remaining should discipline consistently. Don't let separation mean a free rein. Do not threaten your child with "wait until your father/mother gets home!" It's hard to look forward to the return of someone expected to punish you.
- c. Let children know they are making a valuable contribution by asking which chores they would like to do. Assign specific chores to be completed at a specific time of day.
- d. Many families find it helpful to mark the days off a calendar in a daily ritual. Try to find some visual way to let children count the days until their parent comes home. A suggested activity: Make a chain of paper links, one for each day of the deployment. Each day, remove one link from the chain. This allows children to see the time (chain) actually grow shorter by the day.
- e. Encourage each child to send his/her own letters, pictures, schoolwork, etc. The deployed parent should communicate with the children individually with stationery, stickers and colorful postcards that are age appropriate. Cassette tapes can be used to send children messages or read them a story. As the deployed parent, don't forget to acknowledge birthdays and other special occasions with cards, letters or small gifts.
- f. Talk about the deployed parent in daily conversation and think of ways to keep the connection with him/her. Let children know it's okay to be sad, teach them how to recover and move on.
- g. Post a large world map and help the children track where Dad/Mom's travels take them. The children can also do special jobs such as tracking a favorite sports team or television show and reporting in their letters.

Return and Reunion

- a. Parents returning to children need to remember it's hard for children to get used to having you back home. Your children's reactions at homecoming may not be what you expected. Very young children may not remember you and even older children need time to get reacquainted with you.
- b. Be patient – let your children know how much you love them. Spend time with them doing activities they like. It's a good idea to spend time individually with each child.
- c. The parent who has been with the child during the deployment needs to be prepared to reinforce the adjustment period. It's important for the returning parent to have time alone with the children to facilitate the adjustment.
- d. The returning parent should remember not to disturb a family set-up that has been working well without him/her. Give the whole family time to readjust to having you home.
- e. If there is a new baby at home that has arrived since the beginning of the deployment, the returning parent should introduce himself slowly into the "new baby" routine.

CHILDREN AND SEPARATION

Separation from a parent is stressful for a child and there will be reactions from them to that stress. Those reactions will differ among children. The following are some examples of what you might expect:

Infants (Birth – 12 Months)

- Changes in eating and sleeping patterns
- May want to be held more
- May seem fussier than usual

Toddlers (Ages 1-3 Years)

- Show regression in walking or potty training
- Cry for no apparent reason
- Whine and cling to you

Pre-Schoolers/Kindergarten Age

- Clinging to people or favorite toy/blanket
- Unexplained crying or tearfulness
- Increased acts of anger or frustration
- Sleep difficulties, nightmares, frequent waking
- Worry about the safety of everyone
- Eating difficulties
- Fear of new people or situations

School Age:

- Change in school performance
- Increase in complaints of headaches, stomachaches or other illnesses when nothing seems physically wrong
- More irritable or crabby
- Fascinated with the military and news about it
- Worry about family and finances

Adolescents:

- Any of the above signs
- Acting out behaviors such as getting into trouble at school, at home or with the law
- Low self-esteem and self-criticism
- Misdirected anger
- Loss of interest in usual hobbies or activities

Children who have a good relationship with parents usually cope well with separation. They have an understanding of the parent's job and why deployment is an important part of it. There is an available adult who is willing to listen to them and talk honestly about their concerns. These children have a strong sense of self-confidence and self-worth.

Frequent and dependable communication between the deployed parent and the family plays a role in a child's security and ability to cope with separation. All children are different and adjust differently to deployment. It is important that parents normalize these reactions to separation and stress. If the stress related behavior endures longer than a month, further investigation may be necessary. Suggested avenues are talking to other parents, talking to teachers or the school counselor, attending a parenting class or seeking professional counseling. The Battalion Chaplain, your local MCCS or base chaplain provide further information and referrals if needed.

DURING DEPLOYMENT

SECTION 1: COMMUNICATION TIPS

Communication during deployment takes many different forms. The greatest morale builder during a deployment is communication from home. Send letters and cassette tapes, make cards, send "care" packages, and send email messages.

As you communicate from home, it is crucial that you remember the importance of operational security. Operational security consists of measures taken to ensure that sensitive information is not compromised. Ensuring the security of the unit and unit families depends on many factors such as deployment areas and times, port call dates and special shore deployments. Location of spouses and families during the deployment, any special pre-deployment training and the planned return date are also information items that are sensitive. Avoid discussing operational information in public places, over the telephone or with members of the media.

A. LETTERS

A great method of communication during deployment is letters. Long distance telephone calls can get very expensive, very quickly and letters can be reread during lonely moments or times when phone and email are not available. Remember that mail will take a week or more to reach your spouse and military operational schedules may delay mail even further. If you have been receiving mail regularly and the mail suddenly ceases for a week or longer, there is usually no cause for alarm. The delay is probably due to some circumstance such as such as extended operations or bad weather. Here are some communications Rules of Thumb:

1. Be informative and cheerful.
2. Use sarcasm and humor with great care. Remember that in writing no one can hear the tone of your voice or see the expression on your face.
3. Rumors should be avoided, especially if they deal with classified subjects such as unit movements or deployments. Remember the importance of operational security.
4. Do not brag to other spouses about the number of letters you write or the number you receive. Score keeping usually results in hurt feelings.
5. Gossip about other members of the unit, or their families, can cause unnecessary trouble and may not be true. Avoid gossip!

6. You should also remember to be very clear. Do not assume that one spouse knows what the other is talking about. An earlier letter explaining details may not have been received.
7. Try numbering your letters on the envelope so that if more than one letter is received, your Marine will know which one was written first.
8. Write often and write about anything, even the weather. Sometimes the best letters are simply about the events in your day. Sending an audio or videotape of the family sitting around a dinner table, disagreements included, can make the Marine feel at home. Send an occasional "care package". Make sure any food items are not perishable. Some things that can be sent are photos of each other and children, movie or voice tape recordings or small keepsakes.
9. For couples with young children: Let the kids record cassettes for their deployed parent. Have the deployed parent record a cassette telling the kids their favorite stories or just "visiting" with the kids and send postcards or letters to the child/children with brief easy to read sentences.
10. For couples with older children: Let them make their own cassettes and send their own letters. Have the deployed parent answer each letter individually addressed to each child and keep that parent informed of family events such as ball game schedules, class plays, etc.
11. There is often a time lag between letters of at least a week, sometimes longer. Situations often change before a letter is received. It is strongly suggested that you should not make a major decision or argue by mail.
12. If you have to give bad news in a letter, be clear and to the point, and explain all the details including dates.
13. Avoid troubling your spouse with problems that he/she cannot solve. Seek assistance with some of the many agencies and people in the local area. (Key Volunteer Network [KVN], Marine Corps Community Services Center (MCCS), Chaplain, Navy Marine Corps Relief Society (NMCRS) and friends.
14. If you are angry with your spouse or things are going all wrong, try recording everything you're feeling on paper or in a journal. Sometimes after you have vented the frustration, you will feel better and can better handle the situation. Do not send these to your spouse. Remember, there are no "kiss and make-ups" when they are away and written words are far more permanent than spoken ones. Sometimes it helps just to talk to a friend or a Chaplain.

15. Your mail will not be censored; however, when composing your letters, remember that indiscrete conversation and personal letters have the potential to constitute a great menace to national security. This applies especially to persons discussing official matters or unit movements and plans with their friends and relatives.
16. For both spouses, deployed and at home, when communicating with parents, friends and extended family, it is important to think of the effect of disturbing news on your loved ones. Many families are not accustomed to dealing with the military lifestyle and something that seems trivial to you may be extremely disconcerting to your spouse's parents.

B. OTHER MAIL & PACKAGES

1. Use of the correct mailing address is important. Remember, if your letters are not addressed correctly, they will probably be delayed in reaching your Marine, if they arrive at all. Your Marine's unit can provide the proper address to use for this deployment. NOTE: Adding additional address information can delay your correspondence.
2. Put the address on a piece of paper inside the top of the box or envelope in addition to addressing the outside. This allows the post office a way to deliver your mail if outside information is unreadable.
3. If you are sending VCR, music or movie tapes put the message, "magnetic recording enclosed."
4. Remember that an airmail letter can take up to 10 days to reach its destination and parcel post can take as long as six weeks. Do not send perishables through the mail. When mailing money, do not send cash. Use check or money order only.
5. Packages can be sent via airmail (Priority) or parcel post. Airmail is generally more expensive than parcel post. To be shipped through the postal service, the parcel must not weigh more than 70 pounds and not be greater than 108 inches in size. This 108-inch size limitation is determined by adding four times the width to the length of the package. Articles that bear marks or names of copyrighted trademarks cannot be mailed unless those marks or names have been removed or covered. Be sure to check with your local post office or the Postal Service website for current information. Generally, for overseas shipment, including APO and FPO addresses, a customs form must be completed and attached to the package. For current information, consult the U. S. Postal Service website at <http://www.usps.com>.
6. Service members like to get goodies from home. Some suggestions for things to include in Care Packages: cookies, cereal, magazines and books, audio and video tapes, candy bars, stamps, hometown newspapers, puzzles playing cards and grooming items. Remember that it can take up to a month for packages to reach a given destination. Wrap food securely so it will be edible on arrival. Chocolate may melt before it gets there; protect the other items in the box if you choose to include it and realize it probably will not arrive in its original form. If you are not mailing consumables and food items, try to keep selected items small. Storage space is almost always extremely limited.

7. Parcels and articles mailed from outside the continental U.S. (CONUS) are subject to examination by U.S. Customs' officials, with the recipient liable for duties assessed. Please be aware of Customs' regulations to and from the area of deployment. A maximum of $100 a day per address may be mailed "duty free". Parcels mailed with copies of "official orders" attached or enclosed reflecting assignments overseas in excess of 120 days are exempt from Customs' fees when the military member is returning to the states. If orders are enclosed, the parcel must be endorsed by the accepting post office with "Free Entry Movement Orders attached/enclosed" as claimed under Public Law 89-436. Be aware of any trademark violations, as Customs' officials will confiscate counterfeit name brand items and illegally copied software, music and video. U. S. Customs website provides more information at <http://www.customs.gov>.
8. First Class mail can be forwarded by crossing out your home address, writing the forwarding address on the face of the letter and dropping it in the mailbox.

C. E-MAIL

1. Using e-mail can be an efficient way to communicate with your Marine overseas. Again, number the e-mail because dates aren't always effective due to time differences and how often your Marine is able check his/her email. If you don't have a computer with internet or email at home, you can access one at the installation or community library, cyber cafés, and shopping malls. If you have a USO (United Services Organization) close to where you live, they normally provide free internet services to military families in addition to many other activities. Free email accounts are readily available to users via certain web sites such as Hotmail, Yahoo and Netscape.
2. Remember operational security and never discuss operational details such as ship's position, command mission, or scheduling such as specific port call dates.
3. Read the contents before you send it. As you are reading ask yourself some questions:
 - a. Is this negative and depressing?
 - b. Does it contain personal matters that should not be read by others?
 - c. Will my spouse or I be embarrassed if others read this?If your answers are "yes" you may want to reconsider sending it. Rarely will your spouse have an exclusive computer terminal for personal use. Computers are often shared by several unit members or by an entire shop.

4. It is best to send small, mostly text e-mail messages. Messages with a lot of graphics or attachments may be undeliverable because of download times and military network restrictions. The email networks in remote areas and on ships are not always operational so have patience when waiting for a reply.

D. CALLING CARDS

1. A variety of telephone cards are available through many different sources. Most phone companies issue cards and bill for charges monthly. Be sure to research hours, rates, and service charges that will accrue when this card is used. Also, check the calling area covered by the rates. The rates quoted may not be applicable from areas other than your home phone or local calling area.
2. Prepaid phone cards are based on the number of minutes. It is a good idea to research the rules of the card before purchasing. There are many different brands and denominations of cards and the expense may vary greatly. Be sure to educate yourself about the rules of phone cards purchased at retail outlets before you buy.

E. MARS CALLS

1. Occasionally your Marine aboard ship or in port may be able to place a MARS call home. These calls are made via amateur radio to a receiving station in the U.S. and then via commercial phone to your home. You are only charged the collect rate from the receiving station (usually in California), but the call must be limited to 3 minutes. One thing to remember about these calls is that the radio portion of this MARS link is one-way only. This means that only one person may speak. You will get instructions about how to properly use the MARS call from whoever is assisting at the receiving station.
2. MARS can also be used if only one spouse has e-mail. The message in e-mail form is delivered to a local station. Then they relay the message to the other spouse. The addressee's Full Name, Rank, Division, Squadron, or Ship, and E-mail Address for return message will be required. The message needs to be less than 50 words.

F. MORALE CALLS

1. During 1981 the Secretary of Defense authorized the military services to use the AUTOVON (now Defense Switching Network/DSN) system at HQMC to allow family members to contact servicemen who are deployed overseas in remote areas. One family member per service member, a bona fide spouse, child or parent, is eligible to use this privilege for one overseas morale call every 30 days using the DSN system.

2. These calls are made through the Marine Corps Command Center (MCCC) located at HQMC, Arlington, VA. Calls are restricted to two lines: (703) 695-7366 or toll free at 1-866-HQMCNOW (1-866-476-2669). If a morale call is received on any other line, the person calling is informed of the correct number and directed to call back. Calls may be made during off duty hours according to the following schedule (all times all HQMC local time): Monday – Thursday 1630-0600, Friday – Sunday 0000-2400, Holidays 0000-2400.
3. All calls will be sent through as long as the lines are open and not being used for official business. Calls are limited to 10 minutes in duration.
4. If a family member calls and states that an emergency exists, the watch stander receiving the call will inquire about the nature of the emergency and refer the caller to the appropriate agency, usually the local American Red Cross. In an extraordinary situation, at the watch officer's discretion, an emergency call may be connected.
5. Marines that are deployed overseas in actual contingency operations can call the MCCC after working hours and be connected to a personal call with a local number in the DC area. For such calls, the same criteria apply as described above for morale calls. The MCCC does not patch personal long distance toll calls, but can provide patch through to toll free long distance access numbers and DSN operators.

G. LONG DISTANCE CALLS

Basic rates and hours for your local phone company will vary greatly. It is a good idea to research the different plans before deciding on one. Remember, when comparing, take into consideration any monthly plan fees as well as per minute rates. Compare rates for the original place of call as well as the destination. Long distance calls overseas can be very expensive. When you use the phone, use it cautiously and budget for the anticipated charges in advance. Prepaid phone cards can help.

SECTION 2: MEDICAL AND DENTAL

TRICARE services and procedures differ based on the region in which you are stationed. Correct enrollment in DEERS (Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System) is essential for all family members. Failure to enroll in the DEERS system will result in a family member being denied use of support services, including medical facilities. Enrollment is automatic when a family member applies for a new or replacement ID card. When children reach 10 years of age, they require their own ID card. Tricare Prime automatically covers newborn children for 120 days. During this initial coverage period, the child must be enrolled through the installation ID Card Center or the child will no longer be covered. In addition, if children are to be born while your Marine is deployed, you must have either a general or special power of attorney to enroll the child in DEERS.

For more information, you can call the toll free number for the Regional TRICARE Provider at 1-800-242-6788. Or, you may call the TRICARE office here on base located on the sixth floor of the Naval Hospital at 725-1262. They can help you with any problem you might have concerning your medical coverage.

DENTAL BENEFITS

The TRICARE Dental Program (TDP) is a voluntary dental plan available to family members of all active duty and Active Guard/Reserve personal. This program offers comprehensive benefits with low premiums. It is available worldwide. There are two levels of Enrollment. Single coverage is for sponsors with only one eligible family member and Family coverage is for sponsors with more than one eligible family member.

Enrollment Forms can be obtained by:

1. Calling United Concordia at 1-888-622-2256.
2. Visiting the United Concordia website at www.ucci.com.
3. Visiting your Tricare Service Center.
4. Visiting the local dental treatment facility.

Enrollment Process

1. All new enrollees must submit a payment equal to one month's premium with the enrollment form.
2. United Concordia will verify enrollment in DEERS upon receipt of the form to confirm eligibility.
3. Member should contact United Concordia at 1-800-866-8499 inside CONUS, 1-888-418-0466 outside CONUS, to verify that payment and enrollment form were received, verified, and activated in the system before going for treatment.

Choosing a Dentist

1. Choosing a United Concordia Participating Dentist will allow you to pay only your cost share at the time of service. It will also save you money because these dentists have agreed to the United Concordia allowances for covered services.
2. Choosing any licensed/authorized dentist is acceptable. Be aware that the dentist may require full payment at time of service. They may also charge more than the United Concordia allowed fees. You must pay the difference.

Dollar Figures

1. Monthly Premiums: You pay 40% of the monthly fee. Your parent branch of service (the government) pays 60% of the monthly fee.
2. Maximums: Annual Maximum is $1,200 per member per contract year (Feb. 1st-Jan. 31st) for all services excluding orthodontics. Cost for some services such as cleanings, fluoride treatments and some exams and x-rays are not applied to this annual maximum. Lifetime Orthodontic Maximum is $1,500 per member, subject to age limitations. Diagnostic services provided for orthodontic purposes are not applied towards the $1,500 lifetime orthodontic maximum.

Predeterminations are free and are recommended for more complex, expensive procedures such as crowns, bridges, or orthodontics. By having your dentist complete a predetermination request, you can verify coverage for a specific procedure. The predetermination will also estimate the amount the plan will pay and therefore give you a picture of how much you would pay.

VITAL STATISTICS RECORD

The Vital Statistics Record, Appendix C, can assist you with gathering all of the medical information that may be needed in an emergency.

SECTION 3:

KEY FAMILY ORGANIZATIONS

CHAPLAIN

The chaplain provides a friendly face, a listening ear and can be a source of support and reassurance while your spouse is deployed. The following services are provided through the Chaplain Corps:

A. Spiritual Ministry

Eucharistic Holy Communion - Usually held at the main installation chapel, but also administered in a chaplain's office or in extreme cases, anywhere.

Baptism - Included in Divine worship or may be held privately in hospital, home or Chapel. Infant anointing and adult immersions are both available forms of this sacrament.

Confessions - Protestant or Roman Catholic confession is available.

Divine Worship Services – will be offered based on your installation schedule.

Bible Studies – Based on demand. This resource is open to any group desiring it. The chaplain is a leader/facilitator of in-depth scripture study.

Pastoral Counseling – Privately and in groups as the need arises.

Confirmation of Wedding Vows – As requested by individuals.

Funeral/Last Rites - As indicated and requested by individuals.

B. Secular Ministry

Counseling - Appointments can be made by calling the chaplain's office.

Special Ministry – In every life joy and sorrow simply happen. Your chaplain would like to share with you in the former events and support you personally in the latter.

C. You may call the 5th Regiment Chapel (760-725-7329) for information regarding services on base, and to assist in contacting a chaplain of your choice.

NAVY-MARINE CORPS RELIEF SOCIETY

- A. The Navy-Marine Corps Relief Society (NMCRS) is a nonprofit charitable organization. The local office provides financial, educational and other services for active duty, retired military personnel and their family members. "Taking care of its own" is the society's motto. The Society relies heavily on volunteer assistance rendered by family members of military personnel. Financial assistance may take the form of a loan without interest, an outright grant, or a combination of the two, depending upon the circumstances and the repayment ability.

B. Navy-Marine Corps Relief Society can:

1. Help make a practical budget to avoid financial problems.
2. Provide financial aid for emergency or unexpected medical or dental work. Supply payment of the patient's share of medical expenses covered by TRICARE, United Concordia and Medicare programs.
3. Provide financial aid if an allotment check fails to arrive on time.
4. Provide financial aid in the event emergency travel is necessary.
5. Help with funeral expenses (according to need) in the event of a death in the immediate family.
6. Provide layettes and assistance with baby needs as well as budgeting assistance to handle new arrivals. A Navy-Marine Corps Relief visiting nurse is available to assist mothers with new babies or other medical problems.
7. Provides education assistance through a Student Loan Program.
8. Assist with the cost of essential vehicle repair.
9. Assist with financial needs in the case of a disaster.
10. Operate the Thrift Shop on some installations. Thrift Shops have useable uniforms, household items, and clothing for sale at reasonable prices. The profits go directly back to help Marines in need.

C. In order to insure uniformity of treatment and fairness to all personnel, the society is not able to provide funds in situations such as the following:

1. Assisting service members to live beyond their means (normal income).
2. Financing business ventures or purchasing a home/car, or similar permanent investments.
3. Financing vacations, annual leave, or liberty.
4. Paying debts contracted prior to entry into the service.
5. Paying income or other taxes or interest on loans.
6. Purchase of nonessentials.
7. Payment of fines or legal expenses.
8. Providing funds for marriage, divorce or adoption.

D. NMCRS cannot lend money to a spouse without permission from his/her Marine. If the spouse has a General Power Of Attorney or a Pre-Authorization Form, available at the NMCRS office, funds can be advanced for the family's need or emergency and the Marine notified after the assistance is given. By signing a Pre-Authorization prior to departure a Marine is taking an important step in protecting his/her family members from financial crises that may arise during the deployment. Assistance will be given based on the need of the family and according to NMCRS policy and procedures.

- E. Upon request, Marine Corps commands may furnish the NMCRS Headquarters and other NMCRS activities with the following information (information not available locally may be requested from the Commandant of the Marine Corps (code MSPA-5):
1. Current military address of Marines.
 2. Casualty status of Marines.
 3. Report of status of claim for death gratuity or arrears of pay, and information of a similar nature, which has been requested in the interest of Marines or their family members.

If the Marine's personal request for NMCRS assistance is the basis for an inquiry, the NMCRS is authorized full access to his/her pay or personnel records, including any follow-up information relating to the orderly settlement of his/her accounts.

- A. The Red Cross is a 24-hour per day agency. (1-877-272-7337).
- B. The Red Cross offers communication assistance when the Marine and his family are unable to communicate directly or when a family cannot obtain information. Military families often turn to Red Cross when there is a sudden illness, death or birth in the family. If you are away from your hometown, the Red Cross can help you find out about these and other emergencies in your family. If you are the patient, Red Cross workers in military hospitals will write letters for you or help you arrange care for children. If an emergency arises and you must contact your spouse overseas, the Red Cross cooperates with service officials to get the message delivered.
- C. American Red Cross provides emergency financial assistance in the event of disaster. Appropriate referrals between Navy Marine Corps Relief and Red Cross are made when necessary to give complete consideration of needs. The Red Cross can provide NMCRS financial assistance when there is not an available NMCRS office (after hours or not near an installation). Local chapter contact information can be obtained from the ARC web site (<http://www.redcross.org>).
- D. Emergency Leave: If a Marine must take emergency leave, the Officer in Charge (OIC) may ask the Red Cross for an emergency leave report to verify the situation. The information furnished by the doctor, lawyer, or other professionals involved is then furnished to the Officer in Charge to assist him in making the leave decision. This information is usually known as a Red Cross Message. However, the Red Cross cannot approve, disapprove, or recommend emergency leave. A Marine may also request this report before deciding whether the situation is serious enough to take leave.

MARINE CORPS COMMUNITY SERVICES (MCCS)

A. Marine Corps Family Team Building (MCFTB): MCFTB is a component of MCCS at Marine Corps installations. The goal of MCFTB is building competent, confident military families one at a time. The programs that are a part of MCFTB are listed below and more information about them can be obtained by contacting your local MCFTB office.

1. Lifestyle Insights, Networking, Knowledge and Skills: L.I.N.K.S. is a 9.5-hour spouse-to-spouse orientation class primarily intended for spouses new to the Marine Corps lifestyle. It is designed to offer Marine Corps lifestyle insights by providing an opportunity for networking with other spouses who have traveled the “red and gold” road. The knowledge gained is a great way to equip yourself with skills that can make a positive difference in your journey. All spouses are invited to attend no matter their experience level. L.I.N.K.S. is available to spouses of USMC civilian employees as well as other service member spouses serving with Marines.
2. Key Volunteer Network: The Commander’s program, KVN serves as a communication link between the unit and it’s families, assists in developing and maintaining a sense of community within the Marine Corps unit, and is a reliable source of information and referral. Each unit has its own KVN and training for Key Volunteers is provided at the installation level by Marine Corps Community Services. The unit Family Readiness Officer (FRO) and KV Coordinator are the points of contact for your unit or you can contact the installation MCFTB office for more information. Some examples of KVN responsibilities are to welcome new arrivals, pass official information from the CO to families, and provide information and referrals when needed. The volunteers in the network are trained in communication skills and proper referral techniques and are supportive of the USMC and its core values – Honor, Courage and Commitment. Successful volunteers are also caring, compassionate good listeners, mature and willing to adhere to strict rules of confidentiality.
3. Spouses’ Leadership Seminar: SLS is a ten-hour training offered annually at each Marine Corps installation. SLS enables spouses to develop basic leadership skills and enhance existing skills. Attendees are military spouses who have demonstrated consistent commitment to and involvement in family readiness and community building programs. The seminar provides the spouses with the knowledge and skills to enhance their effectiveness in leadership positions.
4. Prevention & Relationship Enhancement Program: PREP is designed to enhance marriages and engagements by reducing the potential for personal problems. It is a research-based approach to teaching couples constructive problem-solving skills and strategies for building commitment and teamwork within their relationship.

5. Chaplains Religious Enrichment Development Operation: CREDO is a program of spiritual growth retreats presented by the Chaplains to awaken Marines and their family members to the inherent personal and social strength available by living healthy spiritual lives. A variety of retreats are available in CREDO in both secular and non-secular formats.

B. Personal Services: The Personal Services Division of MCCS is designed to assist the individual Marine and the military family through centralized information/referral services, relocation services and the coordination of area human resources services. The Division's purpose is to assist in having information and human services readily accessible and responsible to individual and family needs. The division also serves as the focal point for information exchange and coordination of military and civilian family programs. Persons in possession of a valid uniform service identification card are eligible for all center services.

There are a wide variety of programs available through Marine Corps Community Services including:

- New Parent Support Program (NPSP)
- Exceptional Family Member Program (EFMP)
- Information & Referral (I&R)
- Financial Counseling
- Relocation Assistance Program (RAP)
- Volunteer Program
- Lifelong Learning and Off Duty Education
- Family Member Employment Assistance Program
- Career Resource Management Center (CRMC)
- Individual and Family Counseling
- Family Advocacy
- Victim Advocacy Services
- Prevention & Intervention Services
- Children, Youth and Teen Programs including Child Care and Youth Activities

C. MCCS SEMPER FIT is the Marine Corps' health promotion and recreation program. It includes fitness and wellness programs as well as the following:

- Recreation opportunities
- Information, Tickets and Tours
- Single Marine Program
- Special Events
- Aquatics Program
- Intramural Program
- Physical Fitness Center
- Youth Sports

SECTION 4: OPERATIONAL AND PERSONAL SECURITY

Operational security is important. Operational security measures are those taken to ensure that sensitive information is not compromised. Ensuring the security of the unit and unit families involves considering deployment areas and times such as port call dates or special shore deployments if the unit is on a ship, location of spouses and families during the deployment, the planned return date and any special pre-deployment training. Avoid discussing operational information in public places, over the telephone or with members of the media. Family members often don't realize how a simple statement made in passing can jeopardize the conduct of operations and the safety of the people involved.

Personal security is also important. Here are some facts to remember. First, there is no such thing as a "criminal-type" face. This may be the impression from the FBI's Most Wanted Posters, but criminals can be attractive, charming, and gracious. Second, each year a number of criminal acts are committed which are not premeditated. This means that the person who commits the act does it on the spur of the moment. Be alert! Just as you cannot tell a book by its cover you cannot tell a criminal by his/her appearance. Keep these facts in mind and you'll be well on your way to self-protection.

A. PREVENTION MEASURES

Assault/robbery is a violent crime and a life threatening experience. It can touch anyone no matter what his or her age, sex, race, or economic status. Every person is a potential victim of an assault. There is no absolute protection from assault, but there are a few precautions one can take to lessen the likelihood of being attacked. If we increase our awareness of crime prevention tactics, we decrease the possibility of our being a victim.

- a. Accept the fact that you are a potential victim.
- b. Learn about crime prevention tactics.
- c. Be aware of locations and situations where crimes are more likely to occur.

B. WHEN AT HOME ALONE

1. Use bolt type locks on the outside doors and attach one to both the bottom and the top of each door, not in the middle. If you have a storm or screen door, keep it locked as well. It is an excellent idea to keep outside doors locked during the daytime as well as the night. Chain locks and ordinary door locks have proven ineffective in preventing the criminal element from entering the house. When moving into a home that was previously occupied, change the locks. You will have a greater sense of security knowing that no stranger has a key to your house.

2. If someone comes to your house, do not open the door unless you are positive of the person's identity. Use a window or "peep hole" to help with identification. Don't be afraid to ask for photo identification if you have a delivery. A postal or shipping company employee will be glad to verify his/her identity. You can have him/her leave the parcel on the doorstep if you are uncomfortable and not open the door until after he/she has left the property. Should the caller be a motorist with a disabled vehicle or someone else in need of assistance, obtain the number the person wants to call, and you call it. Talk through the locked door. Criminals can be female as well as male; therefore, take the same precautions with a woman on your doorstep as you would take with a man.
3. Do not, under any circumstances, volunteer information to an unknown telephone caller. Often criminals use this as a means of finding out whether someone is alone and, if so, for how long. Always leave a caller with the impression that someone is with you. Chances are good that you will not be bothered further. If you receive obscene phone calls, hang up at once. If the caller persists, contact the police and the phone company. It may be necessary to have your number changed if these calls continue. Having an answering machine or Caller ID allows you to monitor calls before you answer them. It can be a deterrent if the answering message is recorded in a man's voice.
4. If you see someone leering through the window, make every attempt to act as natural as possible. Walk to the nearest room with a phone and contact the police. Turn on the lights and remain inside the house until help arrives. Shrubbery should be kept trimmed to prevent use as a hiding place.
5. Do not advertise that you are alone. Do not put your first name on the mailbox or in the phone book.
6. Try to avoid going into an unlighted backyard alone at night. Wait until daylight if you have a chore to do in the backyard.
7. Never tell anyone what valuables you have in the house. It is a good policy not to keep large sums of money in the house.
8. Having a dog in the house can help to deter a possible intruder.
9. Most law enforcement officials do not recommend keeping a gun in the home for protection.

C. WHEN AWAY FROM HOME ALONE

1. Be especially alert when leaving and returning to your house. Before leaving, lock all doors and windows. Do not place a house key in a mailbox or under the doormat. Those are probably the first two places a potential burglar will look. Leave a key with a trusted friend or neighbor.
2. The use of timers for your indoor and outdoor lights can give the appearance of someone at home. Motion detector lights are also a good idea for outdoors. Be consistent whether you are at home or away.

D. IN THE CAR

1. Always lock the car as soon as you enter or leave it. Keep the doors locked when you are driving.
2. Have the key in your hand so you don't have to linger before entering the car.
3. Look inside before getting in to see if anyone is hiding there, even if the door is locked. It's a good idea to always park in a well-lighted area.
4. Never pick up hitchhikers.
5. If you have car trouble, raise the hood, tie a white cloth around the door handle, lock yourself in and wait for the police. If people stop and offer help, do not get out of the car; ask them to call the police for you.
6. If a person should try to enter your car while you are in it, sound the horn to attract attention until the person leaves. Keep your car in good running order with at least $\frac{1}{4}$ tank of gas at all times.
7. If you are being followed, do not go home. Go to a well-lighted public place where you can get help.

E. ON THE SIDEWALK OR IN THE STREET

1. Stay alert to where you are and who is around you.
2. Whenever possible, take someone along with you.
3. Dress safely wearing shoes you can run in and clothes that do not restrict your movements.
4. Keep purse/handbag/pocketbook close to your body and one arm free for emergencies.
5. Be aware that potential attackers may ask directions or strike up a conversation.

6. If followed by a car, turn and walk in the opposite direction.
7. If followed, go to a lighted residence or business.
8. Do not go to your car if you see people standing near it.
9. Remain clear of shrubbery and doorways when you walk. Carry a flashlight at night.
10. When shopping and paying for merchandise, never expose large sums of money.

F. IF CONFRONTED

Despite all precautions, should you be faced with an attacker, keep yourself together. You still have many options such as:

- a. Dissuading him by saying you are underage, pregnant, you have VD or cancer. Recite nursery rhymes or scripture, talk harshly or scream.
- b. Use some kind of commercial self-protection such as mace. You can carry a whistle to alert others and dissuade your assailant.
- c. The choice of whether or not to physically resist can only be made by you. If the attacker is armed, your options are limited.

REMEMBER: The highest priority in an assault is to survive with the least amount of psychological and physical injury.

G. CONCLUSION

It is hoped that the information presented in this section has not unduly alarmed you, but that it will motivate you to take protective action if you have not already done so. Your environment will have a lot to do with how much protection you require. However, no person is immune to those seeking to rob or prey on the innocent. Good common sense, remaining calm and staying alert can do much to protect you and your family. Your safety and that of your children is paramount in importance to your spouse and to the Marine Corps. When your spouse deploys with the knowledge that you are fully capable of protecting yourself, his/her mind will be at ease and he/she is, therefore, less likely to become involved in a mishap. Everyone gains from this preparedness: you, your spouse, your family and the Corps. Family Readiness is essential to Mission Readiness.

SECTION 5: EMERGENCY LEAVE

It is recognized that problems may arise that can be relieved or alleviated only by the presence of the Marine. Emergency leave may be authorized whenever any of the following circumstances are determined or believed to exist by granting authorities, and normally only after American Red Cross verification is received by the Detachment Commanding officer in Charge. Emergency leave may be authorized:

1. Leave granting authorities may grant emergency leave for any period. When it will include excess leave or when the leave will result in a negative advance leave balance greater than 45 days, leave granting authorities may not authorize emergency leave for a period greater than 60 days without prior approval of the Commandant of the Marine Corps.
2. Upon death of a member of the Marine's or spouse's immediately family; i.e., father, mother, person(s) standing in loco parentis, son, daughter, brother, sister, or any only living relative.
3. When the return of the Marine will contribute to the welfare of a dying member of the Marine or spouse's immediate family.
4. When due to any serious illness or injury of a member of the Marine's or spouse's immediate family.
5. When failure to return home would create a severe or unusual hardship on the Marine or the Marine's family.
6. LOCO PARENTIS: In cases involving a status of loco parentis (meaning the Marine was raised by someone other than their biological mother or father, i.e. grandmother, aunt, etc., that is acting as parental unit). Such status normally should have existed for a continuous period of at least one year prior to the Marine attaining 21 years of age or one year prior to a Marine's initial entry into the Marine Corps. However, final determination of whether such a status did or does exist is with the leave granting authority.

EMERGENCY LEAVE INVOLVING FUNDED FOREIGN LEAVE TRAVEL

Marines shall be authorized funded emergency leave travel in government-owned or controlled aircraft from overseas to CONUS (Continental U.S.), from CONUS to overseas, and between overseas areas. Government expense shall be authorized for a space-required basis. Outbound reservations should be confirmed by telephone prior to member's departure from duty station, if feasible. If immediate reservation cannot be obtained for a travel-ready passenger, the passenger control point (PCP) will direct the member to report to the appropriate Military Airlift Command (MAC) aerial port for assistance in obtaining transportation. The Marine shall be directed to report to the Marine Corps Liaison Section, Passenger Liaison Officer (PLO) or MAC Terminal Liaison Section at the destination terminal immediately upon arrival for endorsement of orders. The Marine Corps activities that assign emergency leave dates shall provide parent commands with inclusive leave dates to enable them to report accurate information into the Manpower Management System (MMS). If necessary, commands that have insufficient funds should request for the required funds to the Commandant of the Marine Corps. Emergency leave shall not be denied solely because of lack of funds.

SECTION 6:

OVERSEAS TRIP PLANNING

Many times, during a Marine's tenure with the Marine Corps, occasions arise for spouses to join their husbands overseas while the unit is on deployment. Several potential problems in regards to trips overseas can be easily avoided with the proper planning and foreknowledge of information about air travel, reservations, obtaining passports, visas, etc. If you are thinking about joining your Marine during his deployment, start early! Some of the necessary requirements for overseas travel take months to complete. When making your travel arrangements, plan for the possibility that the Marines may not be there when you arrive. Travel insurance and an alternate plan are always a good safety net in case plans change.

A. PASSPORTS

All family members planning to travel overseas must have a current passport. Active duty personnel should consider carrying a passport. If you plan on taking leave overseas, you may need a passport. Processing a passport takes approximately 6 to 8 weeks once an application is made.

If you should lose or you suspect that your passport is stolen, immediately report it to the nearest passport agency and also report it to the local police department. To protect the integrity of the United States and the security of the person carrying the passport that was lost or stolen, special precautions are taken in processing lost or stolen passport cases. These precautions include but are not limited to areas such as a verification of circumstances and a review of your file in Washington, D.C. Replacement of your lost/stolen passport may take a considerable amount of time because of this precautionary process. A new passport, which is issued to replace a lost/stolen passport, is limited in validity. Additionally, loss of your passport may leave you without appropriate evidence of identity and citizenship until such time as a new passport can be issued.

NOTE: The main cause for the loss or theft of a passport is carelessness. Exercise every possible precaution to protect your passport. It is the most important document you can possess. Guard it carefully.

B. VISAS

All family members (and active duty personnel on leave) will need a visa for most countries they plan to visit. Visas are not required for Japan if your stay is less than 90 days or for Korea if your stay is less than 15 days.

C. VACCINATIONS

The International Health Regulations adopted by the World Health Organization stipulate that vaccinations against smallpox, cholera and yellow fever may be required as a condition of entry into a country. Check with the immunization clinic at your local healthcare facility for further information on required vaccinations for each country you plan to visit. Any vaccination that you have received must be recorded on your shot record and carried with you when you travel. Be sure to take the kids vaccination records if they are traveling with you.

D. CHECKLIST FOR FAMILIES VISITING OVERSEAS

1. Passport obtained
2. Airline tickets obtained
3. Visas obtained
4. Shots required for entering countries on your itinerary obtained (check with your healthcare provider)

SECTION 7: GOVERNMENT HOUSING

A. CONTINUED RESIDENCY

1. For the Marine: If your family will continue residing in base housing during deployment, be sure you and your family are aware of all housing regulations. It is recommended that prior to your departure, your spouse obtain a Power of Attorney to act on your behalf in certain legal matters that may arise.
2. For the Family: Remember to abide by all housing regulations. A family can be evicted from government housing for proper cause even if the sponsor is deployed.
3. Household problems, which may arise and need attention, may be referred to the local housing maintenance department whether they are routine servicing or emergencies.

B. TEMPORARY ABSENCE

1. If the family will be vacating base housing for a period longer than 15 days or more, but less than thirty days, it is required that a letter be submitted to the Housing Manager. The letter will identify a Point of Contact (POC), name, SSN and phone number for a person responsible for your quarters. This POC is not a housing office employee, but a trusted friend or neighbor. The POC will maintain the yard: and any pets left behind. They should inform the Housing Office of any potential hazards or any maintenance problems.
2. If the family members need to vacate housing for longer than thirty days, there is an additional requirement to submit an AA Form requesting approval (specify length of time and reason for absence). If approved there must be a Power of Attorney on file with the Housing Office. Once again, a POC must be identified in writing as above. If approval is denied and the family still plans to leave for over 30 days, it may be considered abandonment of quarters. Household goods will be placed in storage at the service member's expense. If you decide to voluntarily vacate you will no longer be entitled to base housing upon your return from deployment. In extenuating circumstances after voluntarily vacating, an AA Form to request permission to reapply and accept base housing on the same tour of duty will be required. Local housing authorities are your best resource for information.

C. WAITING LIST

1. If you are on the waiting list at the time of your announced deployment, prior to your departure you should contact the Housing Office. You will continue to rise to the top of the waiting list. There is normally a “frozen” zone at the top of the waiting list where your name will remain during your absence if you are within that zone. Once again remember that local housing authorities are your best resource for information.
2. If the family will accept and move into base housing during the deployment, the spouse must be provided a Power of Attorney, with a copy of such to the Housing Office, prior to departure. Without a Power of Attorney a spouse will be unable to accept quarters. Current phone numbers where the family may be reached must be provided.
3. If the family will not accept or move into quarters during the deployment and you desire to move into housing only upon your return, be sure to notify the Assignment Clerk. Your name will be officially deferred on the list. Your name will continue moving up on the list as usual until you reach the top 10% of the waiting list. If you are deferred on the list you will be frozen just below the top 10%, but still in the order of your original control date. Local housing authorities are your best resource for information.
4. Make sure you consult your local installation housing office for any rules or regulations that may be specific to your installation BEFORE you deploy. Share the information with your spouse or the person responsible for your affairs during your absence.

RETURN AND REUNION

TIPS FOR A SUCCESSFUL HOMECOMING

Your Marine may have a picture in his/her mind about homecoming. The family runs to meet him, showering him with love and affection, everything is exactly as he left it when the ship pulled out – the spouse is the same, the kids are the same, the Marine's role in the household is the same. All of that is possible, but it is highly unlikely. Things have changed in the absence of a parent or partner. The spouse has taken on a new role and learned new skills. Your friends have made new friends. The kids have grown and home repairs may have been completed in a way the Marine wouldn't have done them. There may be new furniture, new clothes, new haircuts, new toys and new items on the menu. The best advice for everyone is to be flexible, be prepared for change and be patient with the readjustment process.

Expect face-to-face communication with your spouse or loved ones to feel awkward at first. One thing you can count on is that things will not be the same as when your Marine left, for either of you. Take the time to listen to each other and acknowledge the great job you both have done communicating during the deployment.

It is a good idea to take time and review the deployment. Discussing issues such as preparedness, lessons learned and any other areas of concern can help build your relationship and coping skills for the next deployment. Some of the questions to ask are:

- How well were we prepared for the deployment?
- Did the frequency of communication (mail, care packages, phone calls) meet the expectations of each?
- What were the successes and failures with the children?
- How can we improve the adjustment process on both ends of the deployment?
- How did the financial setup work for each spouse?
- What should we do differently next time?

Don't expect a "Change of Command" at the door. Transitions take time and patience. The family members at home may be seeing the Marine's return as the solution to all problems. For the Marine, don't expect to solve them all within the first day of your return. Remember to trust that your partner made the best possible decisions during the deployment. You may not have always agreed with those decisions, but that doesn't make them bad ones. Respect how your partner handled things while you were gone and remember that we all need reassurance of love and commitment. During the deployment, the Marine was probably either giving or receiving orders. The Marine needs to remember that his/her spouse and kids will not respond well to demands and orders. The spouse needs to remember that he/she needs time to readjust to the home environment. Avoid the "Who had it worse" game as the separation was difficult for both of you. The most important thing at the point of homecoming is for everyone to be shown love and appreciation for all their efforts during the deployment.

Reunion is a special time for everyone. Even though a parent's long absence may be a source of emotional strain for the children as well as the parent, it's possible to work together to rebuild that special relationship. In addition to the information presented earlier in the section about Children and Deployment, here are some helpful hints for children and deployed parents.

- Encourage children to express their feelings about the return. This may be a mix of excitement, worry and fear. For instance, the child may be concerned that the new lifestyle will change for the worse once the absent parent is home.
- Involve them in homecoming plans and activities such as planning special outings, making small gifts or helping cook the homecoming meal.
- Plan for each child to have special time with each parent. They will be less apt to feel rejected when Mom and Dad want special time alone together, too.
- Plan to spend time together as a family to help reestablish family bonds. Children will feel more secure once these bonds are more secure.
- Discipline should be a shared responsibility between parents; however, readjustment will be easier if the returning parent supports existing rules and takes a back seat for the first few weeks. Don't make the returning parent the "heavy."
- Children change quickly. For example, a preteen may have ignored the opposite sex before you left, but now considers them a top priority. Encourage children to talk about how things have changed.
- Infants are often afraid of the returning parent. Don't worry; it takes time and patience for the new face to become part of the family.
- The returning parent can bring gifts for each of the children. It is not necessary for the gifts to be elaborate. Even as small a gift as a special postcard shows that you thought of them while away.
- Be sure to tell each of your children how proud you are of his/her accomplishments. Express appreciation for the help they have provided during the deployment.
- Children are not mature adults. Don't be surprised if they do childish things. They need your love and attention more than ever. Be patient and treat them with respect. They may reject you at first, but time will ease the readjustment.

With a little preparation you can make your homecoming a memorable experience and an opportunity to improve your relationship with your loved ones.

THE 10 COMMANDMENTS OF HOMECOMING FOR MARRIED MARINES & SAILORS

This is an adaptation of material written by CDR Bryan J. Weaver, CHC, USN, Chaplain 24th MEU (SOC) and LCDR Richard Saul, Command Chaplain, USS KEARSARGE (LHD 3).

While the deployment soon will be a fading memory, the reality of our trip continues along with our anticipated homecoming. Our task is to get home safely and begin preparing for our reunion with families and friends. The following “10 Commandments of Homecoming” may prove helpful in reducing the return & reunion stress.

I. Thou shalt expect your homecoming to be stressful. Stress is any reaction to change. Even positive changes can produce stress in personal relationships. Spouses are already preparing for our return. Aside from official homecoming activities, your spouse is probably trying quickly to look her/his best, find an arrival outfit, experiment with new hairstyles, plan special menus, and prepare the children for Dad/Mom’s return to the home. On board, our excitement level goes up as our homecoming date draws closer and with each passing day, we have to fight the “laissez faire” attitude that creeps into our lives. Both of us are idealizing our return and reunion. Out of our hardships and separation come our dreams. On one hand, we dream about our houses, home-cooked meals, hobbies, driving our cars or trucks, spending time with our children, and intimacy. On the other hand, our spouses may be dreaming of help around the house, time away from the kids, support, encouragement and spending quality time together. Even though we both have experienced separation, the nature of our hardships may be different. Recognize that either marriage partner may not immediately meet expectations.

II. Thou shalt enjoy being an invited guest in your own home. As difficult as it may be sound, our spouses and children have managed without their Marine or Sailor. Our spouses may have become more independent running the household as a single parent. In some cases, Marines and Sailors feel threatened by their spouse’s newfound autonomy and they feel unwanted in their own home upon their return from sea duty. Please try to remember that personal growth has probably taken place and things are not the same. When you first return, allow the family to continue functioning as they have for the last 6 months. Experience their agenda for your reunion. Remember, they have been planning for your homecoming for a long time.

III. Thou shalt not criticize your spouse upon your return. Chances are that your spouse has done the very best job possible given the circumstances. Considering the fast-paced schedule of a Marine expeditionary unit, she/he’s going to have to continue using those coping skills. Provide encouragement, praise, and thanks. Don’t be a Scrooge in showing your appreciation for what your spouse has done in your absence. A judgmental, critical, “know it all” attitude will come across as though you do not appreciate what has been accomplished during your absence. Your spouse is the glue that has held the family together.

IV. Thou shalt change. Change in life is inevitable. It is a fact of life; deployments force us out of our “comfort zones”. The way things used to be often makes us comfortable because we always knew what to expect. Although, it takes energy to adjust to change, the result can be positive. Where a marriage has little personal and mutual growth, it has a tendency to wither on the vine. When you see changes, remember Commandments I through III.

V. Thou shalt spend quality time with your children. Children equate love with time spent with them. Period. Arguments about meeting your own needs and wanting to see your old friends do not carry weight with your children who have not seen you for six months. Spend time with your children as a group and with each one on an individual basis. Each child has a need to be loved and feel special. Children have a tendency to idolize their parents. You are a hero at home. During times of change, children’s behavior may become unruly. Allow your spouse to continue to be the primary disciplinarian in the home. Support your spouse’s efforts and gradually take over this important role as a parent. Tell your children that you love them and back it up with your affection and time.

VI. Thou shalt not treat your spouse like a one-night stand. Both you and your spouse have been looking forward to your reunion for a long time. Treat your spouse with honest, care, and respect. Sexual intimacy is a wonderful blessing in a marriage; treat your spouse with lots of tenderness, compassion, and helpfulness. Kindness and respect go a long way toward kindling the spark of romance.

VII. Thou shalt compromise your social activities for the first few weeks. Your spouse may have met new friends who provided support during the deployment and naturally wants you to meet them. You may want to do the same. Resist the urge to pack the first couple of weeks after a reunion with a full social calendar that leaves both of you exhausted. Spend time with each other and your children.

VIII. Thou shalt watch your finances. The best liberty port is where your family resides, making it tempting to go out and celebrate with spending sprees. Expensive restaurants, a new wardrobe, and new toys for the children subtract quickly from available funds. Plan ahead how much you can afford to spend. Avoid overspending. Watch your credit limits closely. Remember, “today’s buying is tomorrow’s crying.”

IX. Thou shalt confess to a chaplain and not to a spouse. While honesty is always the best policy, timing and discretion are essential. While you may feel the urge to dump on your spouse all that happened during the deployment, it rarely helps a marriage. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. If something is weighing heavy on your heart or mind, see a chaplain, civilian clergy, or a counselor.

X. Thou shalt give your time, talents, and treasures to your family. Often during deployments, many households have separate accounts to manage the finances during the long months of separation. You may have become accustomed to separate accounts and budgets and it may take some time for family finances to flow smoothly. Accordingly, make a conscientious effort to integrate available funds toward the needs of the household. Your greatest asset is yourself; so don’t forget to share your time with your loved ones. It will pay huge dividends for a long time.

APPENDIXES: HELPFUL FORMS AND CHECKLISTS

Appendix A: Family Budget Form

This form can help to get you started on a family financial plan.

Appendix B: Spouse Emergency Data Sheet

Once completed, this form is to be held confidential by the Commanding Officer. It is provided directly to the CO and kept sealed until required for use in the event of a mishap or other emergency. It includes information about family and pets and directions to the family's home in case needed. Unlike the Marine's Record of Emergency Data, this is information provided by the spouse to assist unit personnel in resolving issues that may arise.

Appendix C: Record of Personal Affairs

This list is provided in the appendix to facilitate the gathering of all personal information that will be helpful during the deployment. You should have this information filled out and kept in one location with your important papers. (Wills, powers of attorney, insurance policies, etc.)

Appendix D: Vital Statistics Record

This list is provided to assist you in gathering all of the medical information that may be used during an emergency.

APPENDIX B: SPOUSE EMERGENCY DATA SHEET

We ask that all spouses complete this Emergency Data Sheet. These sheets will be confidential and will only be utilized if a mishap or other emergency occurs and we need to find you. They will be held confidentially by the Commanding Officer. The sheets are relatively simple to fill out. If you have any questions, please call the unit Family Readiness Officer. When complete, put the form in a sealed envelope with your name on the outside and marked "Confidential for CO's eyes only." You can either place the sealed envelope in the CO's mailbox at the unit or mail it to:

Government Quarters

Remember, if you are currently residing off base and wish to live in Government Housing - make short-term commitments. A lease is a legal document and cannot be broken if you have received government housing or if you want to go home while the service member is deployed.

1. _____ Have you completed the Housing Application? Ensure that the housing office has your current phone number and emergency number.
2. _____ Complete Spousal Acceptance Authorization so the spouse may accept quarters while sponsor is deployed.
3. _____ Provide the Housing Office with a copy of your lease to ensure quarters will not be offered until lease is about to end.
4. _____ If you are already in base housing, ensure family members are aware of all housing regulations.
5. _____ If a family plans to be away from quarters a request must be completed at the Housing Office. Approved absences are usually no longer than 30 days; extensions involving special circumstances are considered on a case-by-case basis.
6. _____ Register guests at Housing Office; they may be approved on a 30 day basis up to 90 days. Special circumstances are considered on a case-by-case basis.
7. _____ If you experience overpayment of BAH after acceptance of Government Quarters, do not spend it; it will be needed when disbursing records catch up with your pay and the over-payment is taken back (all at once).
8. _____ If presently on the waiting list for assignment of quarters, but want to wait until sponsor returns, ask housing to put you "on hold"; you will keep moving up on the list. Quarters will be held for you and you will be given quarters upon sponsor's return.
